Hood's Bay is one of the most picturesque spots on the Yorkshire coast. It consists of a beautiful bay flanked by very lofty and precipitous cliffs, in the midst of which nestles a small fishing village. The river Esk runs into the sea here, forming a capital harbour for small craft, and affords excellent facilities for boating. The surrounding cliffs are honeycombed with caves, and there are many delightful walks, while the sands are firm and extensive. Golf links are also provided for the use of visitors.
Whitby, 6 miles distant, is reached by road or rail, and is a favourite resort of artists, on account of the picturesque character of the old houses, and the many quaint corners, alleys, and steps to be found there. Whitby Abbey, the ruins of which crown the cliff, is a grand old pile, and well repays a visit.
Whitby is also famous for its jet ornaments, which are made in large quantities, and are sold at very moderate prices.
